Violence against Dalit Women

Women always face violence from men. Equality is only preached, but not put into practice.

Dalit women face more violence every day and they will continue to do so until accepts the equal.

Women constitute nearly half of the global population. They are inseparable partners and associates of men folk. The gender-gap in India is quite strong and conspicuous in vital areas like literacy, health, labour participation and political representation. The problem is particularly serious in India and certainly deserves public attention as a matter of public policy. But positioned at the bottom of India's caste, class and gender hierarchies, Dalit women experience endemic gender-and-caste discrimination and violence as the outcome of severely Imbalanced social, economic and political power equations. Their socio-economic vulnerability and lack of political voice, when combined with the dominant risk factors of being Dalit and female, increase their exposure to potentially violent situations while simultaneously reducing their ability to escape.

As the National Commission for Women has commented, "in the commission of offences against... scheduled caste [Dalit] women the offenders try to establish their authority and humiliate the community by subjecting their women to indecent and inhuman treatment, including sexual assault, parading naked, using filthy language, etc., This situation exists in India today despite constitutional guarantees of non-discrimination on the basis of caste and gender (Article 15(1)), the right to life and security of life (Article 21) and the constitutional directive to specifically protect Dalits from social injustice and all forms of exploitation (Article 46). Moreover, the Indian State has enacted a series of laws protecting the rights of Dalits and women, acknowledging the prevalence of discrimination and violence against these sections of society. A key law in this regard is the Scheduled Castes/ Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act 1989. The presence of laws, however, without concomitant implementation to ensure personal security to Dalit women, and without concerted efforts to emancipate the Dalit community and eradicate entrenched gender-and-caste biased notions of (in)equality and (in)justice, is not enough. various types of crimes and atrocities are inflicted on them. Rape wife beating eve teasing, sexual and physical harassment, economic exploitation etc., are some of worth crimes, and Dalit and modern women frequently faces.

Poverty- Causes, Effects and Solutions

ABSTRACT

Poverty is a condition in which people do not have the means to afford basic human needs such as nutrition, health care, education, food, clothing and shelter. Poverty is one of the biggest problems that our country is facing today. In spite of all the progress that India has made during the years, the problem of poverty has not been eliminated. Still a great segment of our country is living below poverty line. Even after 62 years of independence from the British rule, large scale poverty remains the most shameful blot on the face of India. The most distressing feature of our social system is that we have at present, great disparities in incomes and lifestyles, on one hand we have millionaires and billionaires, on the other hand, we have teeming millions who cannot make both ends meet and a weak economic condition and with the rising prices of essential commodities, their incomes are further shrinking. One of the biggest reasons regarding poverty is illiteracy. World has moved fast during the last some years but still illiterates are unable to keep pace with the world as they are not able to find jobs. Even if they are able to find one, it's not enough to enable them to earn enough for themselves and for their families; they are not able to end the hunger of their children. They have to lead a marginal and miserable life. They are economically weak. Corruption is also a factor up to some extent for the growing poverty. Some rural people are superstitious, they do not allow their children to learn new art and services. This is all because of ignorance and lack of knowledge and education. Eliminating poverty is the strongest need of the time. There is an urgent need to end poverty and find all the possible solutions to eradicate poverty and hunger otherwise, it will weaken the strong pillar of our country.

Causes of Poverty in India: Illiteracy, Ignorance, Unemployment or Underemployment, high population growth rate, Unequal distribution of income, Restricted access to employment opportunities and income, Large families. Caste system. Discrimination, High level of dependence on primitive methods of agriculture. Lack of proper housing facilities. Unhygienic environment. Climatic conditions constitute an important cause of poverty.

Effects of Poverty: Poor Education and Opportunities, poor health, Low standard of living, Stress and frustration on the mind, Involvement in the activities like theft, stealing or begging for money, Drug Abuse, Such people are more prone to violence, they might kill others for the greed and the need for money.

How to eradicate poverty: The most forceful way to eradicate poverty is by educating the masses especially the women and the youths as they are the real foundation and the building blocks of a country. The poor people must be encouraged to set up small scale industries by giving loans at lower rates or helping the economically weaker sections of the society in the form of grants and subsidies. The government has taken and is taking steps to improve their conditions, but still a lot is need in this regard. There is an urgent need to make the people literate and help them in making India better. Government of India have undertaken a large number of steps for reduction or abolition of poverty.

GENDER DISCRIMINATION ABSTRACT

In Indian penal Code, 1860 intends to punish every person for every act or omission contrary to the provisions of which he shall be guilty within India and acts committed beyond India which are committed offences by the Act offence means a thing made punishable by this code, or under any special or local law . The punishments to which offenders are liable under the revisions of this code are death or imprisonment for life both rigorous and simple, or forfeiture of property fine. In patriarchal society, under family system, the head of the family has to maintain the whole family. Under this circumstance, the position of women, whether she is a daughter, wife or mother in Hindu law, Muslim law, and Christian law is under the maintenance of the men. Family system is the back bone of the society. Infants man and women are two halves of humanity none of the two can reach its highest creative excellence without cooperation of the other. Through the ages, a woman is the mother of mankind but the most horrendous cruelties have influenced her life. Even in the new millennium, the status of women has not improved significantly. They have been the victims of violence and exploitation by male dominated society all over the world. Equality between man and women was almost unknown to before the enactment of the constitution of India. Unfortunately, women have been discriminated in all spheres of life in all societies with varied magnitude and dimensions all through the age. Various types of crimes and atrocities are inflicted on them. Rape, wife beating, eve teasing, sexual and physically harassment, economic exploitation etc., are some of the worst crimes, and modern women frequently faces. Indian Constitution in its Preamble, fundamental Right and Directive Principles. Article 14 guarantees justice-social, economic and political-as well as equality before law and ensures non-discrimination on the basis of sex. Article 15(3) empowers the state to make special provisions for the promotion of the welfare and developmental women. our Constitution, the laws passed and amended, have given Indian Women a de jure status that is unique, yet social conditions, economic imbalances and religious influences have proved to be important extra-legal factors that have made them second class citizens in real life Millions of our women are ignorant or just unable to enjoy the many rights and privileges that have been conferred on them creating a safe and secure environment for women and children in society. The World Conference on Human Rights should recognize women's right to be free from all a gender-based violations and take action to help guarantees that right worldwide.
